1. Describe how the Facebook data leak associated with Cambridge Analytica affected either the Brexit vote or the 2016 US presidential election, and discuss how it may impact Canadian politics.

Solution – Cambridge Analytica collected data from millions of users and collected their likes and information about their friends without proper consent. They used all this data to then develop metrics to identify these people according to their personality and like and found correlation between their likes and personality. This may impact Canadian politics because there is possibility that this data was also configured and used by Canadian politics but since Canada didn't have elections since 2016 we cannot verify our claim.
